Luxembourg Defence Industry Catalogue

Luxinnovation, Luxembourg's national innovation agency, encourages companies to innovate and helps them get access to funding, expertise, infrastructure and networks. Luxinnovation also contributes to the development of the Luxembourg economy by identifying innovation opportunities and fostering collaborative innovation projects that stimulate the development of a sustainable, competitive, and digital economy. In cooperation with Luxembourg's Directorate of Defence at the Ministry of Foreign and European Affairs, Luxinnovation helps companies and research organisations that offer solutions in the area of security and defence to get access to relevant national, European and international opportunities. This includes the promotion of Luxembourg technology capabilities of interest to European Defence Fund (EDF), the European Defence Agency (EDA) and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). The Luxembourg defence industry includes innovative SME, large companies, and RTOs with a proven track-record in strategic key domains such as space, cyber, information superiority, materials & compounds, energy & environment technologies, as well as medical response solutions. In order to strengthen the contribution of Luxembourg's industry to the EU Defence Technological and Industrial Base, this directory is designed to showcase the capabilities of Luxembourg-based industry as well as to encourage potential partners from around the world to explore the opportunities for international research and business development in the Grand Duchy. The objective is to foster collaboration with international actors active in security and defence.
